COURSE OBJECTIVE

This program will provide a platform for research scholars, students and faculty to enrich their knowledge on ICT. ICT is playing a vital role in the teaching learning process and also has become a challenging issue nowadays in the entire academic domain. This program will deliver the advanced concepts relevant to theory and applications of ICT in the teaching learning process. It will enable the researchers, students and faculty members to explore and integrate. This FDP will consist of lecture sessions and lab sessions (in hybrid mode) delivered by experts from reputed institutes of National importance and other HEI. This program will also be very helpful in fostering more inclusive teaching and learning environment for improving overall efficiency of Institution.
